Updates for "Ask Stanford Med" Google+ Hangout on Scleroderma - Wednesday, April 2

To foster conversation about scleroderma, Stanford Medicine is partnering with the Scleroderma Foundation and Inspire for a Google+ Hangout about scleroderma research and progress being made to enhance patients' quality of life. Among the panel of special guests are Lorinda Chung, MD, director of the Scleroderma Center and co-director of the Multidisciplinary Rheumatologic Dermatology Clinic at Stanford, and Karen Gottesman, patient services director for the Scleroderma Foundation of Southern California.

Audience members are welcome to submit questions during the live video discussion via Twitter using the hashtag #AskSUMed. Please save the date and join us on Wednesday, April 2 at 4:30 p.m. Pacific Time.

Readers are welcome to submit questions for the panelists now in the comments section at the Stanford.edu blog. They will collect questions until 3 PM Pacific time on April 2. A selection of the questions will be answered during the live video conversation, which will be broadcast on the Stanford Medicine YouTube channel starting at 4:30 PM Pacific time. Follow the Stanford.edu blog for details on how to watch the Google+ Hangout.

Affordable Care Act Enrollment Deadline Approaches

Affordable health care is available to all Americans, thanks to the Affordable Care Act. However, the open enrollment deadline for 2014 is March 31, 2014. We encourage individuals to act now to provide peace of mind for themselves and their families and, at the same time, save money on quality health care coverage.
